Sometimes you have to ask a question

Welcome to the "AM I AI?" exhibit. You are a human in the digital age, navigating a landscape where AI-generated content and its' creation blurs reality. This movement raises awareness about AI's impact, promotes critical thinking, and encourages verification of online content. Join us in questioning everything we see.

initial sketches

There were signs that made Alex question their reality. Their uncanny ability to process information quickly, their photographic memory, and the way they sometimes seemed to predict events before they happened. Were these just human traits, or something more? The world around Alex felt increasingly surreal. Conversations with friends felt scripted, as if following some preordained pattern. Every interaction seemed to hold a clue, a hint at a deeper truth. Alex decided to conduct an experiment.
